From Pope Francis' message for World Communications Day 2022

I would now like to draw attention to another word, "listen", which is decisive in the grammar of communication and a condition for genuine dialogue.

In fact, we are losing the ability to listen to those in front of us, both in the normal course of everyday relationships and when debating the most important issues of civil life. At the same time, listening is undergoing an important new development in the field of communication and information through the various podcasts and audio messages available that serve to confirm that listening is still essential in human communication.

In the Church, too, there is a great need to listen to and to hear one another. It is the most precious and life-giving gift we can offer each other. "Christians have forgotten that the ministry of listening has been committed to them by him who is himself the great listener and whose work they should share. We should listen with the ears of God that we may speak the word of God".

Feast of the Sacred Heart
